Outstanding Canadian Women

Doris Anderson (1921–2007)

Magazine editor and women's movement champion. Doris Anderson was a long-time editor of Chatelaine magazine and a newspaper columnist. Through the 1960s, Doris Anderson pushed for the creation of the Royal Commission on the Status of Women, which paved the way for huge advances in women's equality. She was responsible for women getting equality rights included in the Charter of Rights and Freedoms. She authored a number of books, including three novels and an autobiography — Rebel Daughter — and sat as the president of the National Action Committee on the Status of Women. Anderson was also an officer of the Order of Canada and a recipient of a Persons Case Award and several honorary degrees. Photo: Barbara Woodley; courtesy of Library and Archives Canada/1993-234 NPC.

President's Message

via the Editor

Following a major home computer disaster, Judy's eloquent message crafted over the summer was destroyed. Her views have been conveyed to me by telephone to add to the Bulletin.

Welcome back from the summer hiatus. I hope that you are all refreshed and ready to work on our Women's Economic Empowerment Event and Greater Toronto District Meeting on October 25.

Assignments for the October meeting will be arranged and all members are strongly encouraged to attend. Your expertise, ideas and muscles will all be a vital part of this exciting membership building and community outreach event.

Sheila Crook will be making a report on the National Convention which she attended as our delegate. She will also be bringing greetings from Sophie Grégoire Trudeau, wife of our Prime Minister.

Then Sheila and Carrie will get down to the working details of our October's Women's Economic Empowerment event.

I am looking forward to seeing all of you on the 27th.
